Nelson, get the model and check out the full article in Scroll Saw Woodworking & Crafts #74 Dragon is a favorite of Tolkien lovers, Game of Thrones fans and students of Chinese legend and unsurprising. These powerful, intelligent and mysterious creatures are said to reward respect for safety and good luck. I added a lot of movement in my generation to stimulate the choreography that is halfway into the traditional Chinese New Year dragon dance. I choose cherry rich, outstanding grains, but you can use the interesting hardwood you want. Make a dragon puzzle, cover the wood with the tape of the blue painter. Attach a copy of the pattern to the tape using spray glue. Make sure the grain flows horizontally. Cut the pieces starting with the base. Set the base pieces beside them to make the project easier to manage, then do the same for the claws and head saving the torso and tail for the last time. Perforated holes for the eyes Piece sand works progressively through the gravel until you reach 320 for interesting hardwoods, finishing with Danish oil or clear spray lacquer. For gentle wood, the colors are your choice of bright acrylic of dragon puzzle paintings, get decorative painter Kristen Scanlan painting tutorial here: material • cherry or maple, 3/4 (1.9cm) Thickness: 9 3/4 x 15 (24.8cm x 38.1cm) • Adhesive spray, temporary bond • Tape: Paint painter • Sandpaper: 120, 220, 320 • Acrylic paint (optional) • Finish like a clear lacquer spray or danish oil tool • Sliding blade: #5 Reverse Teeth • Drill with Bits: Assorted Small • Click here to buy the problem • For more articles like this, subscribe to the magazine.
